

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates generally to anti-HLA assay methodologies utilizing functionally active, individual soluble HLA molecules that are isolated and purified substantially away from other proteins.